INFORMATION

Be mindful of chemical and pharmaceutical waste being flushed down drains, street drains or any recreational waterways that will be discharged into a body of water. Remember, this will ultimately be someone's drinking water.

PHARMACEUTICALS

Hazard: Many medications ultimately find their way to the environment. These medications can affect the health and behavior of wildlife.

Solution: The best way to dispose of unused or expired medicine is to take them to an approved drop-off location that will dispose of the product - for example, a police station or CNO health clinic.

CHEMICALS

Hazard: If certain types of chemicals reach waterways, they can harm fish, plants and other living things.

Solution: When disposing of chemicals, follow all the instructions on the label that will be located on the product container.
